

TOURO UNIVERSITY
JACOB D. FUCHSBERG LAW CENTER
Where Knowledge and Values Meet

Touro Law Review

Volume 14 | Number 3

Article 27

1998

Due Process, Supreme Court New York County: Ramanadhan v. Wing

Follow this and additional works at: <https://digitalcommons.tourolaw.edu/lawreview>

Part of the Constitutional Law Commons, Fourteenth Amendment Commons, Insurance Law Commons, Legislation Commons, and the State and Local Government Law Commons

Recommended Citation

(1998) "Due Process, Supreme Court New York County: Ramanadhan v. Wing," Touro Law Review. Vol. 14: No. 3, Article 27.

Available at: <https://digitalcommons.tourolaw.edu/lawreview/vol14/iss3/27>

This New York State Constitutional Decisions is brought to you for free and open access by Digital Commons @ Touro Law Center. It has been accepted for inclusion in Touro Law Review by an authorized editor of Digital Commons @ Touro Law Center. For more information, please contact lross@tourolaw.edu.

due to the death of many of the investigators, thereby limiting his cross examination at trial.³⁷⁷ The court agreed that Batiz may have endured some prejudice caused by the delay, but since the delay was abundantly due to his own actions, a “general unspecified claim of prejudice” does not provide a basis to dismiss the indictment.³⁷⁸

In comparing the federal case and state cases relied on by the Batiz court, the application of the law in a preindictment delay are congruous. Both federal and state cases conclude that although some prejudice exists against the defendant due to the lapse of time in prosecuting a case, such delay may not deprive the defendant of due process.

Ramanadhan v. Wing³⁷⁹
(decided August 12, 1997)

This Article 78 proceeding involves a due process challenge under both the Federal³⁸⁰ and the New York State³⁸¹ Constitutions, where a professional’s reputation and livelihood were deprived by State action taken prior to the availability of a hearing.³⁸²

³⁷⁷ Id.

³⁷⁸ Id. (citing People v. Andine, 214 A.D.2d 373, 624 N.Y.S.2d 594 (1st Dep’t 1995)). In Andine, defendant appealed his conviction for assault, contending that the preindictment delay of four years and seven months deprived him of due process. Id. at 373, 624 N.Y.S.2d at 595. The court dismissed the indictment since the People failed to show that diligent efforts were made to locate the defendant. Id. at 374-75, 624 N.Y.S.2d at 596. They were in possession of the defendant’s photograph, they knew his aliases and his whereabouts, and, nonetheless, closed the case after six weeks. Id.

³⁷⁹ 174 Misc. 2d 11, 662 N.Y.S.2d 393 (Sup. Ct. New York County 1997).

³⁸⁰ U.S. CONST. amend. XIV. The Fourteenth Amendment provides in pertinent part: “[N]or shall any state deprive any person of life, liberty, or property without due process of law. . . .” Id.

³⁸¹ N.Y. CONST. art. I, § 6. This provision of the New York State Constitution provides in pertinent part: “[N]o person shall be deprived of life, liberty, or property without due process of law.” Id.

³⁸² Ramanadhan, 174 Misc. 2d at 24, 662 N.Y.S.2d at 404. Here, a Special Administrative Hearing before the New York State Department of Social

Specifically, the potential due process violation arose when a physician, whose practice consisted solely of Medicaid patients, was excluded from Medicaid, thus threatening grave professional consequences.³⁸³ The exclusion was particularly debilitating because it went into effect before the physician could be granted a timely and continuous hearing.³⁸⁴ The physician an Article 78 proceeding to challenge the State's prehearing determination. The New York County Supreme Court upheld due process safeguards to protect reputational injury brought about by State regulations which impose prehearing suspensions.³⁸⁵ The court recognized that "the due process clause was designed to prevent exactly this sort of injustice."³⁸⁶

Petitioner, a pediatrician who practiced in an area of upper Manhattan where there is a shortage of physicians, provided medical services in a clinic³⁸⁷ where one hundred percent of the patient population was insured by Medicaid.³⁸⁸ Her claim began on November 9th of 1995, when she received a Notice of Proposed Agency Action from the New York State Department of Social Services [hereinafter "Department"].³⁸⁹ The Notice alleged that she had committed "unacceptable practices" pursuant to section 515.2 of title 18 of the New York Code of Rules and Regulations,³⁹⁰ including submission of claims for treatment and Services would afford the professional an opportunity to be heard. Id. at 13, 662 N.Y.S.2d at 397.

³⁸³ Id.

³⁸⁴ Id.

³⁸⁵ Id. at 24, 662 N.Y.S.2d at 404. Due process guards against "the loss of [one's] profession, [one's] practice and . . . reputation for a lengthy and indefinite period of time without the opportunity for a hearing." Id.

³⁸⁶ Id.

³⁸⁷ Id. at 12, 662 N.Y.S.2d at 397. Petitioner's husband ran a pharmacy directly across the street from the clinic. Id.

³⁸⁸ Id.

³⁸⁹ Id.

³⁹⁰ N.Y. COMP. CODES R. & REGS. tit. 18, § 515.2 (1995). This statute provides in pertinent part: "An unacceptable practice" is fraudulent conduct, including filing false claims for unnecessary medical treatment, and "[f]ailing to maintain or to make available for purposes of audit or investigation records necessary to fully disclose the medical necessity" Id.

prescriptions that were “false, not medically necessary, and not supported by adequate records documenting their necessity.”³⁹¹ At that time, the petitioner was informed that she could deny the charges in writing, which she did on December 20, 1995.³⁹²

The Department ultimately issued its “determination” on November 26, 1996, which terminated the physician’s contract with Medicaid for three years, effective December 25, 1996.³⁹³ As was her right, petitioner requested a Special Administrative Hearing in a letter dated December 5, 1996.³⁹⁴ As a result of this request, petitioner was given a March 6, 1997 hearing date.³⁹⁵ However, eight months after petitioner’s initial exclusion from Medicaid, the parties had only met for one day of testimony.³⁹⁶ In an earlier ruling, the New York Supreme Court had issued a temporary restraining order that delayed exclusion of the petitioner from Medicaid until determination of this proceeding.³⁹⁷ However, on January 21, 1997, despite the temporary restraining order, the Department published petitioner’s name on a list of providers barred from Medicaid.³⁹⁸

All States, pursuant to provisions of their respective State Medicaid Assistance programs, are mandated by the federal government to disclose any negative action taken against a health care practitioner.³⁹⁹ When the action to exclude a doctor is ³⁹¹ Ramanadhan, 174 Misc. 2d at 13, 662 N.Y.S.2d at 397.

³⁹² Id.

³⁹³ Id.

³⁹⁴ Id.

³⁹⁵ Id.

³⁹⁶ Id. This delay was the result of three adjournments over the course of the proceeding. Id.

³⁹⁷ Id. This stay of exclusion allowed petitioner the opportunity to continue in her professional capacity while agreeing to these adjournments. Id.

³⁹⁸ Id. Her name was later taken off the list at an unspecified date. Id.

³⁹⁹ 42 U.S.C. § 1396r-2 (a)(1) (1992). This statute provides in pertinent part:

The State must have in effect a system of reporting . . . by any authority of the State . . . responsible for the licensing of health care practitioners (or any peer review organization or private accreditation entity reviewing the services provided commenced by Medicaid, it must notify "other State agencies, the State medical licensing board, the public, [and] beneficiaries."⁴⁰⁰ When a doctor is barred from participation in Medicaid, facts and circumstances of the exclusion must be reported to the state or local authorities that are responsible for doctor licensing and certification.⁴⁰¹ It is also appropriate to report to any present employer of the physician, as well as to a host of contingent health services agencies and health care providers that might necessarily deal with the physician, such as HMO's and professional organizations.⁴⁰²

Exclusion from Medicaid seriously impairs a physician's professional privileges outside the Medicaid realm as well. Federal regulations provide that a physician may be suspended from a federal health care program when it can be shown that the by health care practitioners) . . . [a]ny adverse action taken by such licensing authority.

Id. Such disclosure is to be made to "the State licensing authority, any peer review organizations, any private accreditation entity, and to the agencies administering Federal health care programs." Ramanadhan, 174 Misc. 2d at 14, 662 N.Y.S.2d at 397.

⁴⁰⁰ See 42 C.F.R. § 1002.212 (1996). This statute provides in pertinent part: "When the State agency initiates an exclusion under § 1002.210, it must . . . notify other State agencies, the State medical licensing board (where applicable), the public, beneficiaries, and others" Id. Medicaid must also notify those entities entitled to notice of exclusion from federally funded medical assistance under 42 C.F.R. § 1001.2005 (a) which provides in pertinent part: "HHS will promptly notify the appropriate State(s) or local agencies or authorities having responsibility for the licensing or certification of an individual or entity excluded (or directed to be excluded) from participation of the facts and circumstances of the exclusion." Id. Notice of exclusion must also be given under 42 C.F.R. § 1001.2006 (a) which states in pertinent part:

HHS will give notice of the exclusion and the effective date to the public, to beneficiaries . . . and, as appropriate, to (1) any entity in which the excluded individual or entity is known to be serving as an employed . . . (4) Hospitals, skilled nursing facilities, home health agencies and health maintenance organizations; (5) Medical societies and other professional organizations

Id.

⁴⁰¹ 42 C.F.R. § 1001.2005 (a).

⁴⁰² 42 C.F.R. § 1001.2006 (a)..

individual was “otherwise sanctioned under . . . a State health care program, for reasons bearing on the individual’s or entity’s professional competence, professional performance or financial integrity.”⁴⁰³ Here, petitioner provided evidence that other providers would discontinue professional privileges upon Medicaid’s exclusion.⁴⁰⁴ Indeed, MetLife Empire Plan automatically terminates its contracts with those physicians who have been banned by Medicaid.⁴⁰⁵ Furthermore, pursuant to New York law, a hospital cannot be reimbursed by Medicaid for services or prescriptions provided by a doctor who has been excluded from its provisions.⁴⁰⁶

Federal law requires reporting by hospitals that have taken steps against doctors resulting in an interruption of that doctor’s clinical privileges for more than thirty days.⁴⁰⁷ The United States Code requires reporting to the State Board of Medical Examiners, and to the U.S. Secretary of Health and Human Services.⁴⁰⁸ The ⁴⁰³ See 42 C.F.R. § 1001.601 (1996). This statute provides in pertinent part: “The OIG may exclude an individual or entity suspended or excluded from participation . . . under . . . (ii) A State health care program, for reasons bearing on the individual’s or entity’s professional competence, professional performance or financial integrity.” Id.

⁴⁰⁴ Ramanadhan v. Wing, 174 Misc. 2d 11, 14, 662 N.Y.S.2d 393, 398 (Sup. Ct. New York County 1997).

⁴⁰⁵ Id.

⁴⁰⁶ N.Y. COMP. CODES R. & REGS. tit. 18, § 515.5 (a) (1995). This statute provides in pertinent part:

No payments will be made to or on behalf of any person for the medical care, services or supplies furnished by or under the supervision of the person during a period of exclusion or in violation of any condition of participation in the program. In the case of a hospital, nursing home or home health care provider, the department may continue payments for up to 30 days after the date of exclusion for clients admitted prior to the exclusion or whose plan of care was implemented prior to the exclusion.

Id.

⁴⁰⁷ Ramanadhan, 174 Misc. 2d at 15, 662 N.Y.S.2d at 398.

⁴⁰⁸ See 42 U.S.C. § 11133 (a)(1) (1995). This statute provides in pertinent part: “Each health care entity which . . . takes a professional review action that adversely affects the clinical privileges of a physician for a period longer than 30 days . . . shall report to the Board of Medical Examiners” Id.

information must be provided at least monthly, where it is stored and made accessible in a data bank that hospitals must check whenever a doctor applies for a staff position or for admitting privileges.⁴⁰⁹ The data bank must also be checked every two years for any information pertaining to current staff members and doctors with admitting privileges.⁴¹⁰ Under the Code,⁴¹¹ a presumption exists that imputes knowledge of any reported information, regardless of whether the hospital actually obtains it.⁴¹²

Once an administrative determination to exclude a physician from Medicaid has become final, with no further appeal pending, a finding of professional misconduct becomes conclusive.⁴¹³ At this point, the Office of Professional Misconduct affixes a penalty after a hearing based solely on the issue of the penalty to be imposed.⁴¹⁴ In the present case, the Department set forth in its answer a principle of administrative law under section 7801(1) of

See 42 U.S.C. § 11133 (b) (1995). This statute provides in pertinent part: "Each Board of Medical Examiners shall report [to the Secretary] the information reported to it under subsection (a)" Id.

⁴⁰⁹ Ramanadhan, 174 Misc. 2d at 15, 662 N.Y.S.2d at 398.

⁴¹⁰ Id.

⁴¹¹ See 42 U.S.C. § 11135(b) (1995). This statute provides in pertinent part: "with respect to a medical malpractice action, a hospital which does not request information respecting a physician . . . is presumed to have knowledge of any information reported under this subchapter. . . ." Id.

⁴¹² Ramanadhan, 174 Misc. 2d at 15, 662 N.Y.S.2d at 398.

⁴¹³ N.Y. EDUC. LAW § 6530 (9)(c) (McKinney 1985). This statute provides in pertinent part: "[T]he following is professional misconduct . . . [h]aving been found guilty in an adjudicatory proceeding of violating a state or federal statute or regulation, pursuant to a final decision or determination, and when no appeal is pending" Id.

⁴¹⁴ N.Y. PUB. HEALTH LAW § 230 (10)(p) (McKinney 1997). This statute provides in pertinent part:

In cases of professional misconduct based solely upon a violation of subdivision nine of section sixty-five hundred thirty of the education law, the director may direct that charges be prepared and served and may refer the matter to a committee on professional conduct for its review and report of findings, conclusions as to guilt, and determination.

Id. In the present case, a fine of $102,000 was affixed. Ramanadhan, 174 Misc. 2d at 12, 662 N.Y.S.2d at 397.

the New York Civil Practice Law and Rules,⁴¹⁵ pursuant to which a petitioner may only seek an Article 78 judicial proceeding upon exhaustion of all other administrative remedies. However, the court emphasized that the present action involves a constitutional challenge to which the rule does not pertain.⁴¹⁶ Therefore, the Article 78 proceeding was appropriately filed.⁴¹⁷

Petitioner's claim was based on the circumstances surrounding her long-anticipated hearing: (1) non-continuous proceedings; (2) protracted hearing schedules due to the Department's backlog; and (3) post-hearing decisions rendered months after conclusion of the hearing.⁴¹⁸ These allegations were generally denied by the Department, but were not rebutted by further evidence. Accordingly, they must be deemed admitted.⁴¹⁹

The statutory regulations that govern Medicaid provider hearings are silent on the issue of length of time allowable between Determination notice and hearing date.⁴²⁰ The following is required by statute: (1) a request for a hearing must formally be made within sixty days of the issuance of the final Determination;⁴²¹ (2) written notice of the hearing date must be made fifteen days prior;⁴²² and (3) a post-hearing decision must be ⁴¹⁵ N.Y. C.P.L.R. 7801 (McKinney 1994). This statute provides in pertinent part: "Except where otherwise provided by law, a proceeding under this article shall not be used to challenge a determination . . . which is not final or can be adequately reviewed by appeal" Id.

⁴¹⁶ Ramanadhan, 174 Misc. 2d at 15, 662 N.Y.S.2d at 399.

⁴¹⁷ Id.

⁴¹⁸ Id. at 16, 662. N.Y.S.2d at 399.

⁴¹⁹ Id.

⁴²⁰ N.Y. COMP. CODES R. & REGS. tit. 18, § 519.1 (1995).

⁴²¹ N.Y. COMP. CODES R. & REGS. tit. 18, § 519.1 provides in pertinent part: "Any clear, written communication to the department by or on behalf of a person requesting review of a department's final determination is a request for a hearing if made within 60 days of the date of the department's written determination." Id.

⁴²² N.Y. COMP. CODES R. & REGS. tit. 18, § 519.10 provides in pertinent part:

At least 15 calendar days prior to the date of the hearing, written notice must be sent to the parties and their representatives. The notice must inform them of: (a) the date, time and place of the hearing and the parties' right to handed down within one hundred and twenty days.⁴²³ As is evident, there is no time limit imposed for a requested hearing to take place.⁴²⁴ Furthermore, "there is no requirement for the hearing to be conducted in a reasonably continuous manner."⁴²⁵

The United States Supreme Court employed a balancing test in Barry v. Barchi,⁴²⁶ to conclude that important public interests outweigh an individual's private liberty interest in the issuance of a pre-hearing suspension.⁴²⁷ In Barry, a New York statute required suspension of a horse trainer's license where post-race testing of the horse uncovered evidence of drugs in the horse's system.⁴²⁸ The Court noted that the State has ample interest in preserving the integrity of a gaming sport carried on under its request an adjournment or change of venue; (b) the manner and means by which adjournments or changes of venue may be requested and granted; (c) the issues which are to be the subject of the hearing; (d) the manner in which the hearing will be conducted; and (e) the right of each party to be represented himself/herself, to testify, to produce witnesses, to present documentary evidence and to examine opposing witnesses.

Id.

⁴²³ N.Y. COMP. CODES R. & REGS. tit. 18, § 519.22. This statute provides in pertinent part:

(a) A written hearing decision will be made by the commissioner or by a person designated to act on behalf of the commissioner and must be based exclusively on the record and testimony introduced at the hearing. (b) The decision will be issued as promptly as possible, but in any event within 120 days of the conclusion of the hearing or the closing of the record.

Id.

⁴²⁴ Ramanadhan 174 Misc. 2d at 16, 662 N.Y.S.2d at 399 (Sup. Ct. New York County 1997).

⁴²⁵ Id.

⁴²⁶ 443 U.S. 55, 66 (1979) (suspending a horse trainer's license while not assured of a prompt postsuspension hearing, was held unconstitutional under the Due Process Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment given the trainer's substantial interest in a speedy resolution of the controversy and the state's minimal interest in delaying such a determination).

⁴²⁷ Id. at 64.

⁴²⁸ Id. at 57-59.

auspices, and therefore allowed pre-hearing suspension despite a recognized liberty interest on the part of the trainer.⁴²⁹ However, the Court went on to state that a hearing should be held “at a meaningful time and in a meaningful manner,”⁴³⁰ and found that due process was not served where a prompt postsuspension hearing was not assured.⁴³¹ “Once suspension has been imposed, the trainer’s interest in a speedy resolution of the controversy becomes paramount In these circumstances, it was necessary that Barchi be assured a prompt postsuspension hearing, one that would proceed and be concluded without appreciable delay.”⁴³²

Similarly, the State of New York requires meaningful timing for post-hearing suspensions. In the case of Pelaez v. Waterfront Commission of New York Harbor,⁴³³ petitioner, a twenty-year, nontenured employee of the Waterfront Commission of New York Harbor, was suspended without pay while awaiting determination of charges of illicit meetings with a labor leader who was under investigation by the Commission.⁴³⁴ In Pelaez, the Appellate Division, Second Department, held that a three-month delay was violative of due process, and required that “such a payless suspension may continue for a reasonable period, or stated another way, so long as the trial or hearing on the charges is held within a reasonably prompt time.”⁴³⁵

In the present case, the court went on to determine whether due process protection should be invoked, specifically where Medicaid regulations would permit four months delay in granting a decision both pre- and post-hearing.⁴³⁶ The court stated that ⁴²⁹ Id. at 64.

⁴³⁰ Id. at 66 (quoting Armstrong v. Manzo, 380 U.S. 545, 552 (1965)).

⁴³¹ Id.

⁴³² Id.

⁴³³ 77 A.D.2d 947, 947-48, 431 N.Y.S.2d 134, 135 (2d Dep’t 1980) (holding that a payless suspension of a twenty-year, nontenured employee requires a reasonably prompt trial or hearing on the charges).

⁴³⁴ Id. at 947, 431 N.Y.S.2d at 135.

⁴³⁵ Id. at 948, 431 N.Y.S.2d at 135.

⁴³⁶ Ramanadhan v. Wing, 174 Misc. 2d at 17, 662 N.Y.S.2d at 399-400 (Sup. Ct. New York County 1997).

under such circumstances, due process would indeed be necessary to protect a valid liberty or property interest.⁴³⁷ Accordingly, the court then proceeded to question whether such interests exist in this case.⁴³⁸ While it has been shown that a Medicaid provider lacks a property interest in “continuing to participate in Medicaid,”⁴³⁹ there is a liberty interest in freedom from stigmatizing allegations made by the State that preclude one’s right to work.⁴⁴⁰ In addition, where such damaging allegations affect one’s “good name, reputation, honor, or integrity,”⁴⁴¹ the individual has a right to refute the charges and “clear one’s name at a hearing.”⁴⁴²

In Wisconsin v. Constantineau,⁴⁴³ the United States Supreme Court struck down a Wisconsin statute that provided for “posting” of notices in liquor stores, absent a hearing.⁴⁴⁴ These notices prohibited sale or gifts of liquor to one exhibiting “excessive drinking” behavior.⁴⁴⁵ “[T]he label or characterization given a person by ‘posting’. . . [is] such a stigma ⁴³⁷ Id.

⁴³⁸ Id. at 17, 662 N.Y.S.2d at 400.

⁴³⁹ Id. (citing Schaubman v. Blum, 49 N.Y.2d 375, 380, 402 N.E.2d 1133, 1135, 426 N.Y.S.2d 230, 233 (1980)).

⁴⁴⁰ Traux v. Raich, 239 U.S. 33, 41 (1915) (holding that a statute which based the right to employment on citizenship status was found to violate equal protection under the Due Process Clause, affirming a personal liberty interest in one’s right to work in the common occupations of everyday life absent intrusion by the State).

⁴⁴¹ Board of Regents of State Colleges v. Roth, 408 U.S. 564, 573 (1972) (holding that a dismissal of a nontenured teacher after one year of employment by the State does not violate due process rights so long as his good name and status in the community were not compromised, which otherwise would have required notice and an opportunity to be heard).

⁴⁴² Ramanadhan, 174 Misc. 2d at 17, 662 N.Y.S.2d at 400.

⁴⁴³ 400 U.S. 433 (1971) The Court found the Wisconsin statute unconstitutional for allowing “posting” of a notice in retail liquor outlets forbidding sale or gift of liquor to one suspected of “excessive drinking.” Id. at 434. Such “posting” violates procedural due process by affixing a stigmatizing label without benefit of notice and an opportunity to be heard. Id. at 436.

⁴⁴⁴ Id. at 434.

⁴⁴⁵ Id.

or badge of disgrace that procedural due process requires notice and an opportunity to be heard.”⁴⁴⁶

This right to procedural due process was limited in the case of Paul v. Davis.⁴⁴⁷ A flyer depicting Davis as an “Active Shoplifter” was distributed by the police chiefs to area merchants after his arrest on a shoplifting charge.⁴⁴⁸ The charge was later dismissed and Davis brought suit claiming a due process violation stemming from “the infliction by state officials of a ‘stigma’ to [his] reputation”⁴⁴⁹ The Court distinguished *Constantineau*⁴⁵⁰ by showing that the liquor store “posting” in that case not only defamed the aggrieved respondent, but also altered her legal status by depriving her of a common right to purchase liquor.⁴⁵¹ This additional loss under state law was not present in the case, and thus due process issues could not be invoked.⁴⁵² “But the interest in reputation alone which respondent seeks to vindicate in this action in federal court is quite different from the “liberty” or “property” recognized in [other] decisions.”⁴⁵³

Numerous cases since Paul v. Davis have expanded the “stigma plus” test which now requires a showing beyond mere reputational injury in order to suffice for a liberty or property interest.⁴⁵⁴ In Brandt v. Board of Cooperative Educational Services,⁴⁵⁵ a teacher who was discharged amidst claims of sexual ⁴⁴⁶ Id. at 436.

⁴⁴⁷ 424 U.S. 693 (1976) (claiming that reputational injury alone as evidenced by publication of one’s name and likeness on an ‘Active Shoplifter’ list does not rise to the level of liberty or property interests normally afforded procedural protection).

⁴⁴⁸ Id. at 695.

⁴⁴⁹ Id. at 701.

⁴⁵⁰ Constantineau, 400 U.S. 433.

⁴⁵¹ Paul, 424 U.S. at 711.

⁴⁵² Id. at 711.

⁴⁵³ Id.

⁴⁵⁴ See, e.g., Ramanadhan v. Wing, 174 Misc. 2d 11, 21, 662 N.Y.S.2d 393, 402 (Sup. Ct. New York County 1997).

⁴⁵⁵ 820 F.2d 41 (2d Cir. 1987) (holding that charges of sexual misconduct lodged against a teacher resulting in his discharge does not alone amount to a deprivation of liberty; rather, a showing that such charges, recorded in his misconduct, proved a “stigma plus” where his future job opportunities were threatened by virtue of “allegedly false and defamatory charges in his personnel file,” which were then available to potential employers.⁴⁵⁶

Many New York cases have espoused the view in dictum that public dissemination of false allegations that stigmatize one’s professional endeavors threatens a liberty interest, thus invoking due process protection.⁴⁵⁷ However, in a case factually similar to Ramanadhan, the Second Circuit in *Senape v. Constantino*⁴⁵⁸ held that a physician discharged from Medicaid failed to satisfy the “stigma plus” test.⁴⁵⁹ Specifically, the federal court here felt that there was not a showing of a deprivation of a tangible interest above and beyond mere reputational injury brought about by exclusion from Medicaid.⁴⁶⁰ “Plaintiff herein cannot point to any specific deprivation of his opportunity to seek employment with others caused by state action.”⁴⁶¹

In concluding its analysis, the court in Ramanadhan refused to follow the Second Circuit’s holding in Senape.⁴⁶² The petitioner personnel file, would likely preclude future employment opportunities, is sufficiently stigmatizing to require notice and an opportunity to be heard).

⁴⁵⁶ Id. at 42.

⁴⁵⁷ Bezar v. N.Y.S. Dep’t of Social Serv., 151 A.D.2d 44, 50, 546 N.Y.S.2d 195, 199 (3d Dep’t 1989) (claiming that physicians, denied the opportunity by the Department of Social Services to re-enroll in state’s Medicaid program, could not allege a right to a name-clearing hearing absent the essential prerequisite of public dissemination of stigmatizing allegations).

⁴⁵⁸ No. 93 CIV 5182, 1995 WL 29502 (S.D.N.Y. 1995) (holding that a physician excluded and denied re-enrollment in Medicaid is precluded from claiming a liberty interest when he retains his license to practice medicine and is not specifically foreclosed by the State from future employment opportunities).

⁴⁵⁹ Id. at *9.

⁴⁶⁰ Id. Here, the physician retained his license to practice medicine and could continue to do so. Id. at *8.

⁴⁶¹ Id.

⁴⁶² Ramanadhan v. Wing, 174 Misc. 2d 11, 21, 662 N.Y.S.2d 383, 402 (Sup. Ct. New York County 1997) (citing Fields v. Board of Higher Education, 94 A.D.2d 202, 207, 463 N.Y.S.2d 785, 788 (1st Dep’t 1983)). “A state court is not bound under the doctrine of stare decisis by the opinions of the federal courts.” Id.

here may have retained her license to practice medicine, but her ability to continue to do so, especially in her established practice where all of her patients were only covered by Medicaid, was seriously impaired so long as she was excluded for misconduct.⁴⁶³

Here, Ramanadhan's interruption of clinical privileges will need to be reported to a national data bank. This is a public dissemination of negative information that threatens professional viability.⁴⁶⁴ Furthermore, all potential employers have been deemed "appropriate" for reporting pursuant to New York law.⁴⁶⁵ "It ignores reality to focus on the doctor's retention of a medical license, when, in fact, virtually all professional opportunities will be foreclosed and petitioner's clinics will be put out of business."⁴⁶⁶

What's more, the "data bank"⁴⁶⁷ in Ramanadhan was found to be roughly equivalent to the "personnel file" in Brandt.⁴⁶⁸ As in Brandt, the data bank may suffice as a "plus" for triggering due process protection.⁴⁶⁹ Accordingly, under New York law, stigmatizing allegations that result in loss of employment or potential for future employment require a hearing.⁴⁷⁰ Due process guarantees "fairness" of process, which in this case, demands a timely hearing "conducted in a reasonably continuous manner."⁴⁷¹

On these facts, federal courts would not find a threatened liberty interest, as in Senape, where the physician retains his/her ⁴⁶³ Id. at 20, 662 N.Y.S.2d at 402.

⁴⁶⁴ Id.

⁴⁶⁵ Id.

⁴⁶⁶ Id. at 21, 662 N.Y.S.2d at 402.

⁴⁶⁷ Id.

⁴⁶⁸ Brandt v. Bd. of Cooperative Educ. Serv., 820 F.2d 41, 42 (2d Cir. 1987).

⁴⁶⁹ Ramanadhan, 174 Misc. 2d at 21, 662 N.Y.S.2d at 402.

⁴⁷⁰ See, e.g., Lee TT. v. Dowling, 87 N.Y.2d 699, 664 N.E.2d 1243, 642 N.Y.S.2d 181 (1996) (holding that dissemination of allegations of child abuse via a state-sponsored Central Register that seriously jeopardize future employment prospects must first be proved by a fair preponderance of the evidence). See also Pelaez v. Waterfront Comm'n of New York Harbor, 77 A.D.2d 947, 431 N.Y.S.2d 134 (2d Dep't 1980); Bezar v. New York State Dep't of Social Serv., 151 A.D.2d 44, 546 N.Y.S.2d 195 (3d Dep't 1989).

⁴⁷¹ Ramanadhan, 174 Misc. 2d at 24, 662 N.Y.S.2d at 404.

license and the data bank for dissemination of stigmatizing information is not specifically targeted at future employers.⁴⁷² In contrast, the Supreme Court, New York County, expressly refused to follow Senape, holding instead that the regulations providing for prehearing suspension of Medicaid providers were unconstitutional for lack of procedures to afford a timely and continuous hearing.⁴⁷³ The dissemination of information, like the data bank in Ramanadhan, imperils one's reputation while threatening future professional opportunities, a "plus" that triggers a due process shield of protection.⁴⁷⁴

⁴⁷² Id. at 20, 662 N.Y.S.2d at 401.

⁴⁷³ Id. at 20, 662 N.Y.S.2d at 402.

⁴⁷⁴ Id. at 17, 662 N.Y.S.2d at 400.